

I am a single woman with 2 adopted daughters from China, and would like to adopt again, either domestically or internationally. I know many many families with adopted children. The process to adopt either way is very difficult, costly, and requires long term commitment before the process is even completed. Meanwhile, real CHILDREN wait. This is a crime. Please do not make more rules that impede children being raised with parents. For most adoption agencies and orphanages, this work is a labor of love...Convict people who are involved in adoption illegally, but don't make it any harder than it already is for those families, agencies and orphanages that have children being in families as their purpose.

Michelle Crawford